NOTES FROM THE STUDIOS -- PREPARATIONS FOR THE CENTENNIAL AND ACADEMY EXHIBI-

TIONS. Thomas Hicks is painting a nearly full length portrait of Bishop Beckwith, of Georgia.

J. G. Brown is hard at work at three pictures for the spring exhibition at the Academy. L. E. Willmarth is busy on a new figure picture for the Academy. "There's Music in All Things If Men

Had Ears," is the title. J. O. Wood is engaged on pertraits of famous horses, He has recently completed one of Marquis of Lorne for Richard B. Hall, of this city. He is also at work on two cattle pictures, "Seeking Shade" and "The

Miss M. B. Odenheimer is just finishing a portrait of a little grandchild of Secretary Fish, and has commenced painting ideal figures representing Tennyson's "Vivien" is nearly completed and "Guinevere" about half finished.

S. J. Guy is still lingering over "Supplication," and has commenced another composition containing two life size figures of mischievous children, who are trying to climb up by means of chairs to a plate of fruit which has been placed beyond their reach.

Daniel Huntington is at present engaged upon a portrait of Mrs. Morgan Dix. The picture is three-quarter length standing, and the base is uncommonly elegant. A pertrait of a son of the late Mr. Proudfoot, of Troy, is also on his easel.

C. L. Warner is engaged in making sketches in clay for statuettes representing American street-characters. Two of these in red wax, representing a "Newsboy and "Bootblack," attracted considerable attention at a recent reception of the Lotes Club. Casts of plaster of and "Bootblack," attracted considerable attention at a recent reception of the Letes Club. Casts of plaster of patriarchs which have been put in marble and bronze are around his studio. Among the latter is a bust of H. B. Flumb and a medallion in bas relief of the late Leonard Hazeline.

Miss Holen A. Fuller is painting a half length portrait of Miss Lenn Pholan, of this city. Miss Fuller has recently returned from Paris, where she has been studying painting, and has in her atunio many sketches of French scenes, studies of still life, an interior with a child playing on the floor with a cat and rabbit. "The Happy Family" is the title. A little gir playing with cherries, a study of a King Charles spaniel, and a view of the flead waters of the fluidson are among the most interesting of her works.

Giovanni Turini has now in his studio, No. 44 West. Thirtieth street, two works in marble, which he intends exhibiting at the Centennial. The most important one is an illustration of a portion of Ariosto's "Orlando Furioso." The two figures of Angelica and Medea are life-size, and she is represented in the act of stopping the wound in his side with a weed ploked from the way-gide. The other work is a single figure, also in marble, and represents the goddess firs Idoaing above the clouds, which support the figure, and through which the rainbow is seen. A hemisphere, on which is traced the outline of a part of Europe, including Italy, is placed below the clouds, A life-size figure in plaster of an Indian shooting salmon, and a model for a monument, are also in his studio. Mr. Turini is at present engaged on a portrait bust in marble of Mrs. Frank Leshe and one of the late Dr. Anderson.

Mr. A. Ortiz is at present engaged in painting portraits. One of Signor Ferrer de Couto is now on his easel. Two Spanish street scenes, which he has recontly finished, represent a dentist performing an operation on the jaw of a peasant and a barber plying his vocation on an individual of the same class, while their companions stand around

His portrait of Stanley, the Herand explorer, is still in his studio, No. 23 Union square, but will probably be sent to the historical department at the Contennial.

The pictures now in the water color exhibition at the Academy will not be sent to Brooklyn at the close of the New York exhibition, as was at first intended.

The fifty-first annual spring exhibition of the National Academy of Design will be opened to the public on Tuesday, March 25, and will close May 31. The works of living artists, original paintings, exetches, sculpture, architectural designs, or models, and engravings which have never before been publicly exhibited in this city or Brooklyn, are eligible. After the close of the regular exhibition a new one will be organized, mostly of loaned works, and it is proposed that this exhibition shall remain open until next fall. Works for the regular spring exhibition must be sent to the Academy, corner Fourth avenue and Twenty-third street, from Monday, March 6, to Saturday, March 11, inclusive.

All works of art for exhibition at the Centennial must be sent to No. 625 Broadway between the list of March and list of April, as they will be transported from this city on April 3. Of the sum appropriated by the State 35,060 has been set apart for transportation and insurance of works of art from this city to Memorial Hall, so that works sent to headquarters in this city will be sent with no expense to the owners. The Committee on Selection was regularly organized last Saturday by the Director General. Daniel Huntington was appointed Chairman, Thomas Hicks, Secretary; Howard Roberts, of Philadelphia, Treasurer; Jervis McEntee, J. Q. A. Ward, H. K. Brown (all of New York), R. M. Sining and tharles R. Robinson, of Boston; S. B. Wangh and W. H. Willow, of Philadelphia, The business of this committee as the United States and select such as are suitable for exhibition. A meeting is held every Wedwesday by the Committee on Selection, the Advisory Committee and the State Committee. The Advisory Committee appointe

LITERARY CHIT-CHAT.

A new book on the Indian Alps, being a narrative of two years' residence in the Eastern Himalayas, by a lady pioneer, is a handsomely written and beautifully illustrated book of colored drawings from designs by the author, an English lady.

Several very pretty handbooks of art have been issued from the South Kensington Museum, and will be useful to connoisseurs. There is a book on each of the following subjects:- "Majolica," "Ivory Carvings," "Furniture," "Musical Instruments" and "Textile Fab-A new volume on the art of furnishing, being a popu-at a penny, has sold to the extent of 300,000 of the first number. It appeals to the goody-goody class of readers, its main object being to counteract the influence of the "penny dreadfuls." Germany still continues the most fruitful country for literature, having published 12,070 different works in 1874 and 12,516 in 1875. The solid character of the reading is evinced in the fact that only about 900 out of the 12,000 were devoted to fiction and the drama.

Not only George Ellot's "Daniel Deronda," but Mr. Trollope's "Prime Minister" is to be published in eight monthly divisions, at five shillings each. John Murray will soon print a new book on "Albert Durer: A Ristory of His Life and of His Art," by M. Rev. H. M. Dexter has in press, in Boston, a work on

"Boger Williams and His Relations to the Puritans." A new London magazine, edited by Rev. Charles. Voysey, will appear in March under the title of the Langham Magazine. It will be liberal-conservative and Church-of-Englandish,

Mr. G. A. Simgox, a well known critical writer in the Academy, is writing a book on the "Present State of the Religious Question," including the results of the criticism of the Gospel, prayer, Providence, miracles, inspiration and the glaims of different Christian communities so authority as the Church.

"Men of Mark" is the title of an interesting gallery of contemporary portraits of Englishmen distinguished in any way, which Low & Co. are bringing out with photographic portraits. The poetry of Theophile Gautier has been augmented by the discovery of many forgotten or unpublished pieces, all of which will appear in two volumes, while those fine poems, the "Emaux et Camees" will form a

The Sunday World is a new paper established in Philadelphia by Mr. Hugh A. Mullen. It is republican en politics, and its first numbers are lively and bright and show much ability. There are now almost as many Sunday papers in the Quaker City as in New MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC NOTES.

Gilmore's military band apppears in Newark, N. J. on Washington's Birthday. Miss Matilda Phillipps appears in Rossini's opera

"La Cenerentola," to-night at the Academy. Miss Annie Lynch has a Centennial concert at Stein way Hali, for which a very attractive programme has been prepared.

Dr. S. Austen Pearce, the distinguished organist will give an organ recital at the Dominican church, on Tuesday evening.

The Oraterio Society, Dr. Damrosch, leader, will give Mendelsshon's "Walpurgisnacht" and the first part of Liszt's "Christus," at Steinway Ball, on the 28th Inst. Signor Operti is engaged for the summer as leader, of the orchestra at the new Globe Summer Garden, Philadelphia. He will have an orchestra of seventy per Mile. Titlens sings the title role in "La Favorita" at the Brooklyn Academy this evening. On Thursday she appears for the first time in this city in her grand impersonation of Donna Anna in "Don Giovanni," and also at the Saturday matinee.

The Kellegg English Opera Company returns to New York next week after a highly successful season in the provinces. Miss Kellogg appears at the Academy on the ening night in "Martha." Her recent benefit in Richmond, Va., was a genuine triumph, according to the local critics.

There will be an amateur dramatic performance for the benefit of the new Church of St. Agnes on Thursday evening, the 23d inst., at the Union League Theatre. The play will be Boneicault's comedy "Old Heads and Young Hearts," and a reception will take place after the performance.

A very interesting concert will take place at Chickering Hall on Friday night, the artists being Mr. S. B. Mills and Miss Bridges, pianists; Miss Mettler, contralto; Mr. Fritsch, tenor; Mr. Remmertz, baritone; quartet from the New York Vocal Society and Mr. Bassford, accompanyist.

Theodore Thomas gives his fourth symphony con cert at Steinway Hall on Saturday night, preceded by a public rehearsal on Thursday afternoon. The programme is as follows:-Symphony in G, No. 13 (Breitkopf & Haertel's edition), Haydn; "Coriolanus," overture, Beethoven; Suite, No. 2, in F, opus 194; "In Un; geriecher Wise, 17 Raff. Mr. William Mason will play the piano concerto in C (Koschel 467), by Mozart. Henry Peterson's play of "Helen, or One Hundred Years Ago," has been produced at the Chestnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia. It is a story of the Revolution, the scene laid in Philadelphia and neighborhood, and is based upon the loves and adventures of a young British officer and an American lady. The play is highly praised by the local critics. "East Lynne," with Miss Lucille Western in one of her most effective rôles, will be played at the Grand Opera House as an extra matinée on Washington's Birthday.

The Martha Washington reception at the Academy of Music on Washington's Birthday will undoubtedly be a grand event, and those who attend will have the additional satisfaction of knowing that they contribute to one of our worthiest charities-the St. John's Guild. Miss Blanche Davenport, the daughter of Mr. E. L. Davenport, has added new laurels to her family name, although she has not yet assumed it on the stage. Under the stage name of Bianca Lablach, this young lady has recently performed in Italian opera at Naples. She appeared in a new opera by Puercia, entitled "Rita," and the Neapelitan critics praise her voice and dramatic expression in the highest terms.

"Moraldo" is the title of a musical farce to be produced by the Sans Souci Amateur Dramatic Club on Thursday, at the Lexington Avenue Opera House, for the benefit of the Harlem Dispensary. It is written by a young lady of sixteen, who is reported to have unusual ability.

OBITUARY.

JUDGE ALEXANDER SPAULDING.

At eleven o'clock yesterday morning Judge Spaulding, late one of the Justices of the Marine Court, died at his residence, in West Sixty-first street. On Monday last he caught a severe cold, resulting in pneumonia, which assumed such a speedy and acute form as to baffle the skill of his physicians. Being a man of powerful physique and of uniform robust health no apprehension was felt of a serious termination of the disease until a very few hours before his death. Judge Spaulding was born in 1828, at Vernon, Oneida county, this State. In early years he evinced a studious disposition, and his father sent him to Hamilton College, where he graduated with high honor. Having chosen the law as his profession, he entered, as a law student, the law office of Millard Fillmore at Buffalo. Having completed his legal studies he entered on the practice of his profession at Greeley, Wis. He was one of the ploncer lawyers in that district and this young State and speedily acquired a fuerative practice. His active mind, however, could not bide the slow growth of the West, and so some twenty years ago he came to New York and in this city entered on the practice of his profession, which he followed assiduously, excepting a long interval when he filled the position of Collector of Internal Revenue in the Eighth district through an appointment by the late President Johnson, until his election in 1871 as Judge of the Marine Court. He was elected on the anti-Tammany ticket. He showed on the bench such admirable judicial qualities that at the election two years ago he was a candidate for Judge of the Superior Court, but was defeated with the balance of the tecks. He was endowed with that strong personal magnetism that won him hosts of friends. In early years he evinced a studious disposition, and with the balance of the ticket. He was endowed with that strong personal magnetism that won him hosts of friends. A well read lawyer, a careful, discriminating and able Judge, a man of the strictest probity of character, dignified and courteons off as well as on the Bench, large hearted and cenerous, his unexpected demise will be deeply regretted by both the Bench and the Bar, Action will be taken on the opening of the Marine Gourt in regard to his death. He leaves a wife and three children. The arrangements have not yet been made for his funeral. made for his funeral.

THE SENIOR GENERAL OF THE BRITISH ARMY.

[From the Pall Mall Gazette, Feb. 10.] General Sir H. G. A. Taylor, G. C. B., senior general in Her Majesty's army, died yesterday in the ninetythird year of his age. His commission as cadet dates from 1798, and in August, 1799, he joined the Tenth regiment, Madras native infantry, as ensign. He was present at the battle of Assaye, on the 23d of September, 1803, when he was severely wounded, but was sufficiently recovered to be present with his regiment at the battle of Argaum, on the 29th of November, 1803, and at the siege and storm of the fortress of Gawlighur in December following. In 1810 Captain Taylor was appointed Superintendent of Bazaars, and was subsequently appointed to the Commissariat, in which he served in the field until 1817, having been nearly tenyears on active field service against the Pindaries under Sir John Doveton and other commanders. In September, 1825, after three years' furlough in England, he was appointed Town Major of Madras; in October, 1828, he was appointed to the command of the brigade and fortress of Vellore, and in 1802, the northern Sirkars being in a disturbed state, he was selected to take the command of the northern division of the army. He served the full heritod of five years in command of that division, and was actively employed during that time in suppressing rebellions in the Vizagapatam, Kimmedy and Ganjam districts. After a distinguished career of nearly forty years General Taylor returned to England in February, 1838. present at the battle of Assaye, on the 23d of Septem-

M. THOME DE GAMOND, PRENCH ENGINEER.

(From the Dublin Freeman's Journal, Feb. 11.) M. Thome de Gamond, the well known French engineer, who was the first to put forward in any practical shape the scheme for the submarine tunnel between France and England, and who devoted thirty years of his life to propagating his ideas, has just died in Paris.

THE LOST FOUND.

Laura H. Nourse, the young woman whose mysterious disappearance was published a few days ago, has been found. It appears that she was laboring been found. It appears that she was aboring under a temperary aberration of mind on the day ahe lets her home, caused by a prolonged timess, and as she walked instessly down West Nineteenth street her careworn appearance attracted the attention of a clerayman and wife who were passing by. They questioned her, and invited her to their residence. The following day seeing the notice of her disappearance, they communicated with her relatives and she was taken home. The name of the clergyman is withheld from the press.

THE HACKMEN.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20, 1876.

To the Editor of the Henald:In your "Municipal Notes" of this morning you state that the backmen and livery stable keepers are worried as to the new ordinance now pending before the Board of Aldermen. The hackmen want the fare low, as they claim, it will make more riding, and the only class of livery hable keepers it will affect are those who pay hotel proprietors large fees for the use of the streets in front of their hotels for back stands; and while they are willing to take all the fares they can pick up on the streets they do not want to bear, to them, the edious name of backmen. ## CONKLING RHYMES.

Do not, if you think you're wrong, cling,
To Ulysses; go for Conkling.
Let, through the nese, with mighty song, sing,
Songaters, now, to Rescoe Conkling.
You Custom House and dock yard throng cling
To the soaring skirts of Conkling.
To him next year you'll all belong. Cling,
Then, at once to conquering Conkling.
Politicians, sound your gong. Cling
For your life to Frendent Conkling.

You who've been wrong, cling
To Conkling; to Conkling
To Conkling; to Conkling
To Conkling, to Conkling
You'd better all strong cling.
To the coattail of Conkling
You'll see the whole throng cling;
It will not be long; cling
At once, then, to Conkling.
Hang! Bang the gong! Cling
To glory and Conkling!

Sit down! This is worse, we swear,
Than punch, punch for the passenjare! DANGEROUSLY STABBED.

Shortly before ten o'clock last night an altercation took place between two Italian bootblacks named Audrew Masante, aged twenty-three years, living at No. 39 Thompson street, and August Donera, aged twenty-seven, of No. 61 South Firth avenue, during which Masante stabbed Donera in the right side with a pocket kuife, indicting a dangerous wound. It appears that Masante was at Donera's house and after some conversation they quarrelied. Masante dared his companion to go into the street to fight, threatening if he did to kill him. Donera accepted the challenge, and the two went outside. They had hardly reached the sidewalk when Masante drew a pocket knife and plunged it into his assailant's side, after which he ran away. The wounded man staggered to the house and the inmates came to his relief. A physician was summoned and dressed his wound, which he pronounced dangerous. Word was then communicated to the Fifteenth precinct station house and detectives were sent after Masante, but up to midnight they had not succeeded in finding him. A general alarm was also telegraphed to the various stations giving a description of the fugitive. The wounded man appeared loath to give the police further information as to the affray and declined going to the hospital. drew Masante, aged twenty-three years, living at No.
